Video and audio recording of moments in our lives has become commonplace with the widespread use of smartphones and other recording devices. Health care settings are no exception. Recording in this sensitive domain has raised ethical issues of transparency, trust, consent, respectful treatment, welfare, confidentiality, and privacy. These issues, in the context of motivations, processes, and challenges of recording patients and clinicians will be explored in this panel presentation, with representatives from ethics, law and medicine.

Jointly sponsored by the UNC Center for Bioethics and the UNC Hospital Ethics Committee, Clinical Ethics Grand Rounds offers an innovative and interactive forum for engaging with ethical, legal, and policy issues of particular salience to patient care within the hospital. There are no commercial support or conflicts of interest to report.

**Attendees may receive certificates of attendance for their professional education records, but no CEUs will be offered for this session.****
